Analysis of Readability is calculated using the Gunning Fox index formula described below.

Average Sentence Length = the number of words / the number of sentences

Percentage of Complex words = the number of complex words / the number of words

Fog Index = 0.4 * (Average Sentence Length + Percentage of Complex words)

6 6 Syllable Count Per Word

We count the number of Syllables in each word of the text by counting the vowels present in each word. We also handle some exceptions like words ending with "es","ed" by not counting them as a syllable.

```python
          word = word.lower()
          count = 0
          vowels = "aeiouy"
          if word[0] in vowels:
              count += 1
          for index in range(1, len(word)):
              if word[index] in vowels and word[index - 1] not in vowels:
                  count += 1
          if word.endswith("e"):
              count -= 1
          if count == 0:
              count += 1
          return count

```python
[34]: data['SYLLABLE PER WORD'] = np.nan
      for i in range(len(data)):
        data['SYLLABLE PER WORD'][i] = syllable_count(''.
      →join(data['preprocess_text'][i]))

7 7. Personal Pronouns

To calculate Personal Pronouns mentioned in the text, we use regex to find the counts of the words - "I," "we," "my," "ours," and "us". Special care is taken so that the country name US is not included in the list.

```python
          text = ' '.join(text)
          sentences = sent_tokenize(text)
          for sentence in sentences:
              words = word_tokenize(sentence)
              tagged = nltk.pos_tag(words)
              for word, tag in tagged:
                  if tag == 'PRP':
                      count = count + 1

```python
